STATEHOOD BILL PASSES SENATE

Is Put through by Vote of 53 to 18.

RECALL OF JUDGES REMAINS

Contested Provision in Constitution of Arizona Is Left Alone, Vote on the Same Being 43 to 26.

Washington, Aug. 9. — The senate had a day of speech making. Senator Crawford of South Dakota concluded his speech denouncing the recall of judges, as provided for in the Arizona constitution.

At the conclusion of his speech Senator Clapp, progressive Republican, addressed the senate in support of the proposed recall. Senator O'Gorman of New York condemned the recall as the most "pernicious doctrine" put forth in years, one calculated to undermine the judiciary and degrade popular government.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma made a brief reply. He is in favor of recall of federal judges, including the supreme court justices. Senator Cummins defended the Arizona constitution.

Senators Bailey, Shively and Newlands closed the debate which has been extended over two days on the statehood resolution.

The debate was interrupted shortly after 4 o'clock by the visit of Admiral Togo, of the imperial Japanese navy. On motion of Senator Root, the senate took fifteen minutes recess and senators filed past the visitor and shook hands with him, Vice President Sherman making the introductions. On leaving he was applauded on the floor and in the senate galleries, which were crowded with visitors at the time.

The statehood resolution was passed at 7:30 o'clock, after the senate had been in session eight and one-half hours. The first vote came on the Nelson amendment to knock out of the Arizona constitution the recall of judges. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 43 to 26. The statehood resolution containing the recall was then passed by a vote of 53 to 18. Bailey and O'Gorman voted against the statehood resolution.

Miss Edith Prothero of Marshall was chosen to fill this position.

Important and extensive changes in text books were determined upon. The new books to be introduced in the fall are: Hawkes, Luby & Touton's First Course in Algebra, O'Ooge's Latin for Beginners, Vos' Essentials of German, Dr. F. R. Gorton's Physics, and Hessler & Smith's Chemistry.

The committee on buildings and grounds reported that the contract for installing a new toilet system in the central building had been awarded to Pickells and Bassett and the work is now being done. Mr. Holmes reported that the contract for fuel had been awarded to Frank Stowell.

The board inspected some preliminary plans which had been submitted for the proposed building on the Kinne lot, but no definite action was taken.

"BLACK HAND" MURDERS 18

CHICAGO COMPILES STATISTICS OF CRIMES COMMITTED BY ORGANIZATION.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—A summary of the crimes committed by members of the black hand in this city during the year 1911 gives a total of eighteen murders, scores of stabbings and more than 100 bomb explosions, $500,000 collected in blackmail and the infliction of incalculable misery upon thousands by sinister threats.

With one exception none of the perpetrators of these numerous crimes has been convicted. During the month of March of the present year four murders were committed near one street corner in what is known as "Little Sicily" alone. That month also was more than ordinarily prolific of bomb explosions.

MONAGHAM PAYS COSTS AND FRUENTNER SIGNS THE PLEDGE

Dennis Monaghan and Edward Fruentner who were arrested Monday night in the Fourth Ward Park on a charge of drunkenness, were arraigned before Justice Stadtmiller Tuesday afternoon and pleaded guilty. Monaghan was allowed to go on suspended sentence on payment of costs, $4.90, as this was his first offence. Fruentner, who was released from the Detroit House of Correction in June on a similar charge was obliged to sign a pledge for one year in addition to paying the costs. If he breaks over he will be given the limit of the law.

ANNOYED BY OTHERS WEEDS

YPSI RESIDENTS COMPLAIN OF POORLY KEPT YARDS AND THE RESULTS.

Considerable annoyance is caused certain property-owners in Ypsilanti because the efforts which they make to keep their own yards free of objectionable weeds are frustrated by the indifference of their neighbors. In one such case the property-owner is surrounded on two sides by persons who allow weeds to grow rampant on their premises, and argument has been unsuccessful in persuading them of the advisability of cutting all such growths before seed-time. There are both state laws and city ordinances dealing with this nuisance.

NOTED MAINE SENATOR DEAD IN LEWISTON

© 1911, by American Press Association.
SENATOR W. P. FRYE

Portland, Me., Aug. 9.—United States Senator William Pierce Frye died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Helen White, in Lewiston at 3:56 p. m.

There were at his bedside at the time of his death Mrs. White and his other daughter, Mrs. Alice Briggs of Washington.

Senator Frye has been ill for a long time and he has been at his home in Lewiston all summer. His illness took a serious turn about a week ago although he rallied somewhat and it was only a few minutes before his death that it was realized that the end was near.

Senator Frye's death means that Maine will be represented by two Democrats in the United States senate, as it will devolve upon the present Democratic governor, Plaisted, to name his successor to fill the vacancy until the legislature meets one year from next winter, when his term will expire.

There will be probably three active candidates for the honor, William M. Pennell, who was a candidate against the present Senator Johnson, E. B. Winslow, a member of the executive council, and James C. Hamlen, a merchant. All reside in Portland.

Mr. Frye had occupied a seat in the house or senate since the Forty-Second congress. He was elected senator to fill the seat vacated by James G. Blaine when that statesman was appointed secretary of state.

He was elected president pro tem. of the senate in 1896 and he was a member of the commission that was sent to Paris to adjust terms of peace between the United States and Spain. He always manifested a keen interest in the foreign relations of the United States.

PERKINS IN A DILEMMA

Must Either Answer Questions or Go to Prison.

Refusal to Afford Information to Congressional Committee May Cause Him Trouble.

Washington, Aug. 9.—George W. Perkins, formerly of J. P. Morgan & Co., is threatened with imprisonment because of his refusal to answer questions put to him by members of the Stanley investigating committee.

The questions were designed to draw from Mr. Perkins information regarding contributions by himself or the steel trust to the Roosevelt campaign.

Unless Mr. Perkins recedes from the stand he has taken, it is the purpose of Representative Stanley, chairman of the steel committee, to offer a resolution citing that Mr. Perkins is in contempt. This resolution would have the support of the other Democratic members of the committee and no doubt is expressed by Mr. Stanley or his colleagues that the house would comply with their recommendations in the event of the matter being carried that far. If a resolution stating that Perkins has refused to answer questions pertinent to the investigation established by the house is passed the former financier would be brought before the bar of the house. In the event of his failing to purge himself of the contempt by answering the questions the case would be certified to the United States attorney for the District of Columbia.

The house could imprison Mr. Perkins, but in such cases it has been the custom to permit a defendant to sue for a writ of habeas corpus. This procedure would undoubtedly follow in the case of Mr. Perkins.

MAN ACCUSED OF MURDER IS GIVEN RELEASE

Despite the circumstantial evidence against Grant Kline as being implicated in the murder of Dan Corey, whose body was found in the flume at the Peninsular Paper Mill three years ago, Chief of Police Gage has failed to secure enough evidence against him to warrant issuing a complaint to hold him and he was accordingly released Tuesday afternoon.

Kline was arrested Monday on the strength of the story told by Henry Miller and held until Tuesday on suspicion, but since he could not be held longer without a definite charge and since the evidence to warrant making a charge was not forthcoming the release was ordered.

REPORT THAT MAJOR BRITTON WAS SHOT IS NOT FOUNDED

The report current here that Major Harry Britton was shot at Port Huron appears, upon investigation, to be unfounded. CENTRAL FIGURES IN ROMANCE THAT STIRRED BRITISH SOCIETY

MR. LEWIS HARCOURT. MRS. HARCOURT — MRS. CUNARD. SIR ROBERT HARCOURT

London, August 9.—One of the most talked of romances of the year in European society circles has been the seeking of the hand of the beautiful Marjorie Cunard in marriage by the Hon. Robert Vernon Harcourt, M. P. Their wedding, which has just taken place, marked the culmination of a courtship that continued several years. Miss Cunard, who is the granddaughter of Sir Samuel Cunard, founder of the steamship company bearing his name, became engaged to Mr. Harcourt over a year ago, and subsequently, to the great astonishment of the fashionable realm, the match was declared off. Mr. Harcourt was almost prostrated as a result and failed to appear at his clubs for a period. Finally the story leaked out that Miss Cunard had broken the engagement. Later society was equally surprised to learn that the engagement had been re-established. The wedding occurred at Beaconsfield parish church. Mr. Harcourt, who has represented Montrose Bergs in parliament since 1908, is a son of the late Sir William Harcourt, who was the leader in the House of Commons. He is a playwright and an author of considerable ability. The photo herewith was taken on the day of the wedding, showing the bride and groom, Mrs. Cunard, the bride's mother, and Lewis Harcourt, brother of the groom.

HOLSTLAW GOT $1,500 GRAFT

Iuka, Illinois, Banker Tells of Queer Furniture Deal.

THOUGHT HE ACTED HONESTLY

Former State Senator Astonishes His Hearers by Naive Admission of Soliciting Bribe—States He Intended to Keep Money.

Washington, Aug. 9. — Senators on the Lorimer investigating committee were amazed as D. W. Holstlaw, former state senator from Illinois, naively told the details of the furniture deal which ran over into the present legislature.

He told that he asked $1,500 from the dealer to whom the contract was to be awarded and was promised the amount. The furniture was installed the latter part of May of this year.

"Did you think you were doing anything wrong?" asked Senator Kenyon.

"I thought honestly that I wasn't taking anything from the state. I just thought he was giving me a present out of his own profits."

"You considered that all right?"

"If he wanted to give me something out of his earnings, I supposed it was all right."

"Did you expect to turn it over to some fund," asked Attorney Marble.

"No; I expected to keep every cent of it myself," was a reply which caused a roar of laughter.

Holstlaw was asked concerning his deposit of $3,500 with the State Bank of Chicago by the committee. The Iuka banker said he went to President Goddard of the Chicago bank, who introduced him to the cashier.

"He made out a deposit slip—the cashier did—for me and gave our bank credit for $2,500."

"Did you write the slip?" asked Attorney Marble.

"No, sir; the cashier did."

This is the slip which so mysteriously disappeared during the Lorimer debate on senate floor last winter. The name Holstlaw as spelled "Holtslaw," and the former state senator has never been on a witness stand to explain whether he wrote the slip and misspelled his name.

The direct examination ended at 3:34 p. m. and Attorney Hanecy started his effort to break the story down.

TO PROTECT BIRDS

DIRECTOR OF ZOOLOGICAL PARK ISSUES AN APPEAL TO BOY SCOUTS.

ASKS BOYS TO ENLIST IN GRAND ARMY OF DEFENSE.

Says Citizen Complainant is Just as Necessary as Policeman to Stop Law Violators.

W. T. Hornaday, director of the Zoological Park, The Bronx, N. Y., has issued an appeal to the Boy Scouts to protect the birds and wild animals of the country. He says: "In the United States there are owned today over 10,000,000 shotguns, and at least 1,000,000 are used every year. Ninety-seven thousand of them are automatic and pump guns, firing from five to six shots without reloading—most unfair and unsportsmanlike weapons to use against the pitifully small remnant of wild life.

"I call upon the Boy Scouts of America to enlist in the army of the defense. I call upon them to watch sharply for violators of the laws protecting wild birds and mammals, and to help in bringing violators to just punishment. In a case of violation, a citizen complaintant is just as necessary as a policeman."

ARRESTED FOR DRUNKENNESS; PAYS COSTS AND SENTENCE IS SUPENDED

Ann Arbor, August 9.—Roscoe Hunt, a farm laborer who claims Ypsilanti as his home, was picked up by the local officers about 2 o'clock this morning and arrested on a charge of drunkenness. As he seemed to be wandering about aimlessly he was accosted by the officer who asked how he happened to be there at that time of night. The officer was informed that it was none of his business. He was arraigned before Justice Doty this morning and pleaded guilty. The justice suspended sentence on payment of costs.

UNION LABEL

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 9, 1911

Warden Simpson, of the state prison at Jackson, is to be commended for his determination to purchase enough cows to supply the milk necessary for the institution. The warden purchased twenty acres of land last spring, planted it to corn, and has cultivated it with convict labor. He has since built one silo and has started another. He thinks he will cut the cost of the milk bill in half, and we doubt not that he will be able to do this if he buys Holstein cows, such as are used by most of the state institutions, where a large volume of milk is required. It is claimed that the prisoners are now consuming nine cans of milk a day, and it is costing the state $13.77 every twenty-four hours, or $5,026.05 per year.

If the warden will exercise as good judgement in the use of all of the prison labor as he is in this, he will be able to pile up some statistics for the Jackson states prison which will contrast very favorably with those of his predecessor.

"WHAT IS SOCIALISM?"

"Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan is possessed of an industrial power as great as, if not greater than, that of the White Czar, and he and his kind rule by subtly, but effectively, influencing, if they do not even openly create and control, the legislatures that make our laws and the courts that administer them.

"Indeed, says the Socialist, even the physical phase of the Class Struggle should be sufficiently evident to every American, whether he be employer or employee. Here are our organizations and Capitalists, such as the National Association of Manufacturers, formed with the acknowledged design of combating organized Labor, and here are the unions, such as the 1,700,000 strong American Federation of Labor, formed, with a membership exceeding 2,000,000 men, for the acknowledged design of combating organized Capital. We average a thousand strikes a year—carried on by injunctions and boycotts, lockouts and violence—directly touching the welfare of the small capitalistic group and vitally affecting countless numbers of the large class of wage-earners. To say, in the face of such facts, that there is no Class Struggle is, to the mind of the Socialist, but to cry 'Peace, peace! when there is no peace.'

"So the Socialist contends that the Class Struggle—

"(1) Has its origin in the economic laws of social evolution.

"(2) Has endured since the introduction of slavery into primitive communism.

"(3) Has at each period of history ended in the triumph of the exploited, or lower class.

"(4) Has now asserted itself between the Capitalistic or employing class and the Proletariat or employed class, inevitably and irreconcilably creating, as of old, differing economic and moral viewpoints, and at last—through the obtaining by the many, for the benefit of all, the means and production and distribution—will be able to end itself for all time to come."

Mr. Kauffman then takes up the Socialist's replies to the various so-called Capitalistic attitudes on this question.

Wild West Will Show Here Thursday

Young Buffalo's Wild West Show will arrive here Thursday (tomorrow) with a big surprise in store for the amusement lovers. They claim upwards of 700 cowboys, cowgirls, Cingalese, Mexican ruralies and lariat throwers, Russian Cossacks, N. W. Canadian mounted police, U. S. Cavalrymen, and rought riders from all quarters of the globe. They further state that 300 mustangs, broncos, and Indian cow ponies is the sum total of the horse flesh with the aggregation. Among the star of the arenic world with the show are Annie Oakley, the world's greatest woman rifle shot and Ambrose Means the daring American cowboy, who, with the Buffalo Jones expedition, went to East Africa on the famous bloodless hunting trip. Means is the man who actually cast the lasso which captured lions, tigers, rhinoceri, and other denizens of the dark continent—a feat of recklessness and daring the like of which has never before been recorded. Ambrose Means will give a vivid illustration of just how the wild animals of Africa were captured at each performance of the Young Buffalo Wild West show. Although a big feature in this show, which boasts of so many men and women who have won international fame, he is by no means the preeminent one.

Straight Current Most Deadly.

Volt for volt, the direct or straight current is more deadly than the alternating current. There is always tiny bleeding in the brain in bad electric shock, so it is a mistake to lay the shocked ones with the head low, for this increases the many little deadly bleedings in the brain.

Russian Oysters Poor.

Moscow's oysters come from the Black sea. They are not larger than the end of one's thumb and cost five cents apiece. Very few are eaten.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

Dear Sir—I am very much pleased to tell you that your medicine has effected what no other medicine has done, a cure. I have had rheumatism for forty years, suffered terrible pain, could not put one leg over the other without taking hold and lifting. My legs today are just about as good as they were when I was twenty-five. I certainly recommend it to every sufferer from rheumatism. Yours,

HARMON IS CARDINALS' STAR

Manager Bresnahan Expects Him to Become Greatest Pitcher.

Bob Harmon, the St. Louis Nationals' young pitcher, whose future was looked upon with so much doubt by many followers of the Cardinals last year, has really been the mainstay of the team this season. His work is showing less of the ragged control that marred his 1910 efforts with the club, and he always had the other stuff. Harmon has gained confidence, and his free transportation is now down to where he can pitch an entire game with only a walk or two.

Many expected Harmon to weaken when the race grew warm, but the longer the pennant fight the better he grows.

Bresnahan predicts that Harmon will be the greatest pitcher in baseball next year. According to Roger, the Missouri boy is just learning the fine points of the pitching game.

CALLAHAN ONE WHO CAME BACK

After Six Year Layoff Outfielder Puts Up Great Game.

PLAYS BALL FOR FUN OF IT.

Worth a Fortune, Is an Actor and Politician In Chicago, but Loves Baseball—Quit Job as Plumber's Helper to Break Into Pastime.

While carrying a bathtub on the back of his neck and drawing $4.50 a week for the same Jimmy Callahan sat down on the curbstone in the outskirts of Fitchburg, Mass., one hot afternoon, and his youthful brow began to wrinkle with thought waves.

Across the street he saw a cluster of ball players climbing into a bus. A newspaper near at hand informed the young plumber's apprentice that those fellows were getting $150 a month for busting a baseball in the eye and then had the rest of the day off. For a half hour Jimmy grappled with this problem and then, with a sigh, picked up his bathtub and moved on. By the time he had arrived at his destination young Callahan, who in those days was called "Nixy," threw down the bathtub and threw up his job.

As a result of that desperate move on the part of Jimmy, though still a plumber at heart, he is today the owner of a ball park in Chicago, is a political leader of great popularity, is an actor—a good one at that—during the off months, has a stocking full of gold laid away in the safe, is back with the White Sox after a six years' absence and is one of the leading hitters of the American league. With all that he is one of the most popular ball players that ever blistered an umpire.

"This coming back stuff is no wonderful thing," explained Callahan recently. "I never abused myself by drinking or excessive smoking, and while I was out of the big league I was playing ball once every week with the semipro teams around Chicago. When I started in this year I didn't have to take off weight."

Callahan is simply a born ball player and can't get away from it. For years he was a star pitcher, and when his arm began to grow weak he proved his versatility by going to the outfield and becoming a star there. After six years' absence he is today hitting .330.

Jimmy Callahan has a very keen sense of humor, which accounts for his success as a monologist. He delights to tell of the day when he packed up his things in Fitchburg and started for Philadelphia to become a big league pitcher. That was in 1894, seventeen years ago last June. After throwing up his job of carrying bathtubs Callahan played regularly with a team at Fitchburg and was known far and wide as a coming pitcher. Finally Arthur Irwin, who was managing the Philadelphia club, heard of the youngster and offered him a job.

The first thing Jimmy did before starting was to send on his photograph to Philadelphia, thinking the whole town would be interested. He then packed his belongings—one shirt, two pairs of socks, two collars and a baseball glove—into a little blue kiester. Get that "kiester?" Well, a kiester is composed of two papier mache sides, something like an old fashioned telescope. The clothes are put in between them, and then a leather strap binds them together.

This blue kiester was the pride of Callahan's heart, and with buoyant spirits he got off the train in Philadelphia. By some strange mishap there was no crowd at the depot to meet the new pitcher, and Jimmy was keenly disappointed. He couldn't understand it any more than he could the fact that his picture had not appeared in any of the newspapers. This he blamed on the mails.

Nursing his disappointment as best he could and shouldering his kiester, Jimmy went to the hotel and registered, which was quite an important formality. After finishing his signature with a flourish he turned the register around so that the clerk could see it plainly. Callahan then swelled out his chest and waited for the shock to the poor clerk. Again there was a pang of disappointment. The young man had never heard of him, and to add insult to injury the clerk looked him squarely in the eye and said, "It will be $3 in advance, as you have no baggage."

This was another blow to Jimmy as well as his kiester, but he paid his last three bucks, took the room, and said nothing. "After gazing around at the other players' neat suit cases I began to get ashamed of my kiester.

"Out of $25 advance money which the manager gave me I paid the maid a dollar to take that kiester and burn it up. With $10 of my funds I paid the first installment on a diamond stud, and then I was a big leaguer."

Jimmy forgot to say that he first appeared in a $6.80 blue serge suit just off the dummy, which blew out of shape in the first big wind, and he couldn't get it on again.

In due time Callahan got his first trial, and he plowed through the league from the start.

The only reason for Callahan quitting the game six years ago was that he wanted to make money. Now that he has made it he says he wants to remain on the diamond until they cut the uniform from his back.
